GEORGE R.

AT the Court at St. James's, the 23d of November, 1796,

PRESENT,

The KING's Moſt Excellent Majeſty in Council.

HIS Majeſty having been pleaſed to appoint John Graves Simcoe, Eſq; Major-General of His Majeſty's Forces, to be Governor and Commander in Chief in and over ſuch Parts of the Iſland of St. Domingo as are or may be in the Poſſeſſion of His Majeſty, he this Day took the Oaths appointed to be taken by the Governors of His Majeſty's Plantations.

Downing-Street, November 26.

DISPATCHES, of which the following are Copies, have been received from Robert Craufurd, Eſq; by the Right Honorable Lord Grenville, His Majeſty's Principal Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs.

Head Quarters of His Royal Highneſs the Archduke Charles of Auſtria, Offenburg, November 11, 1796.

MY LORD,

I Have the Honor to inform your Lordſhip, that official Accounts were this Day received by the Archduke from General Davidovitch, ſtating his having beaten the Corps that was oppoſed to him, and taken a Thouſand Priſoners.

His Advanced Guard has taken Poſſeſſion of Trente, which Place, as well as the ſtrong Poſition behind it, were abandoned by the Enemy without Reſiſtance.

I have the Honor to be, &c.
ROB. CRAUFURD

Right Hon. Lord Grenville, &c. &c. &c.

Head Quarters of His Royal Highneſs the Archduke Charles of Auſtria, Offenburg, November 13, 1796.

MY LORD,

I Have the Honor to inform your Lordſhip, that by a Report received by His Royal Highneſs the Archduke from Lieutenant-General Neu, Governor of Mayence, it appears, that the Corps which had advanced to the Nahe has been obliged to fall back, and take a Position behind the Seltz.

nor

This Corps consisted merely of Detachments from the Garrison of Mayence, commanded by Major Generals Simpschæn and Rosemberg. The latter, with the Left Wing, was posted on the Heights of Biebelsheim and Planig, to observe Creutznach; the former, with the Right Wing, on the Hill called the Rochusberg, to defend the Passage of Bingen. They had Orders, in case of being attacked by a very superior Force, to retire nearer to Mayence.

This Position on the Right Bank of the Lower Nahe is well known from the Operations of last Year. It is not to be maintained against an Enemy of very superior Force; for Creutznach lies so entirely under the Fire of the Hills from the Left Bank of the River, that the Enemy is always Master of that Passage, as was sufficiently proved by the Affair of the 1st of December, 1795. On this Side Creutznach the Heights are so distant from the River, that the Enemy has every Facility in extending himself in Front and on each Flank of the Town; and a Corps of very inferior Force cannot take Post near enough to prevent this Formation.

On the 26th Generals Simpschæn and Rosemberg were attacked by Two Divisions of the Army of Sambre and Meuse. The Action lasted several Hours, and the Enemy, notwithstanding so very great an Inequality of Numbers, was repulsed with considerable Loss.

Early on the 27th the French renewed the Attack, and advanced in several Columns from Creutznach, to turn the Left of the Austrians; but the latter, by an Exertion of much Ability and Steadiness, maintained their Position. In the Evening, however, the Generals, in Conformity to the Order mentioned above, determined on retiring behind the Seltz; and the Retreat was executed with perfect Order.

The Loss of the Austrians on this Occasions consists in Nineteen killed, One Hundred and Eighty-four wounded, Ninety-six missing; on the Whole Two Hundred and Ninety-nine Men and Eighty-nine Horses.

The Enemy's was certainly considerable; Two Hundred of them were taken Prisoners and brought into Mayence.

I am thus circumstantial in stating the Particulars of this, in Fact, unimportant Affair, because I observe that the official Reports of the Army of Sambre and Meuse, I mean the late ones, contain the most absurd Exaggerations. I should consider them perfectly undeserving of Notice, were it not that those who have no other Means of judging of the Events of the Campaign than by comparing the Accounts published by the contending Armies would be led into the most erroneous Conclusions if they gave each Party Credit for only an equal Degree of Fairness in their Relations.

In the Enemy's official Account of the Affair of the 21st of last Month near Neuwied, it is represented as having been a serious and general Attack; whereas it was merely undertaken for the Purpose of destroying his Bridge, and spreading Alarm on the Left Bank of the Rhine. Both these Objects were effected by a very insignificant Force; and there was not the smallest Idea of making a serious Assault on the Tete-de-Pont of Neuwied. The Enemy states, that, besides an immense Number of killed and drowned, he actually took One Thousand Prisoners, whereas I can assure your Lordship, from the most authentick Information, that the whole Loss of the Austrians did not exceed Two Hundred and Eighty-four Men.

After General Moreau's Army had crossed the Rhine, Two Divisions of it were detached towards Landau, and One Division of the Army of Sambre and Meuse arrived about the same Time in the Neighbourhood of Kayserslautern. General Hotze was still at Schweigenheim, on the Road from Speyer to Landau; his Corps was not of sufficient Strength to have any other Object than that of spreading Alarm in Lower Alsace; and it was evident, that as soon as the Rhine should again separate the main Armies, the Enemy must immediately become Masters of the Vicinity of Landau.

General Hotze, therefore, on the Approach of Forces infinitely so superior to his own, retired towards the entrenched Camp of Manheim, without being in the smallest Degree molested by the Enemy. He established the advanced Posts of his Left Wing on the Reebach, from whence they ran along he Fletzbach towards Franckenthal.

On the 7th Instant the French attacked General Hotze's Line. Their principal Efforts were directed against the Left Wing, and the Fire of Artillery and Small Arms continued a great Part of the Day; but the Enemy was repulsed, and General Hotze still maintains his Posts in Front of the entrenched Camp, extending from the Reebach, by the Village of Maubach, to Franckenthal.

I have the Honour to be, &c.

Head Quarters of His Royal Highness the Archduke Charles of Austria, Offenburg, November 14, 1796.

MY LORD,

IT is with the greatest Satisfaction I have the Honor of announcing to your Lordship, that official Reports were this Day received by the Archduke from Generals Alvinzy and Davidovitch, wherein it appears that the offensive Operations in Italy have been most successfully commenced.

I should not presume to address your Lordship upon this Subject, were it not that if Colonel Graham is, as I suppose he must be, with Marshall Wurmser in Mantua, he cannot as yet have had it in his Power to correspond with your Lordship.

General Alvinzy's Report is dated at Caldo-Ferro, November 7. General Davidovitch's at Trente, the 8th Instant.

After the Second Operation, undertaken for the Relief of Mantua, those Corps of Marshal Wurmser's Army, which could not penetrate, retired; the One under General Quosdanowich to the Venetian Frioul; the other, under General Davidovitch, up the Valley of the Adige, towards Neumarkt.

These Corps were successfully reinforced by considerable Numbers of fresh Troops; and General Alvinzy was appointed to command the whole of the Army, until it should effect it's Reunion with Marshal Wurmser.

After the Arrival of the Reinforcements at the Places of their Destination, General Alvinzy, who in Person had undertaken the Conduct of the Corps

Corps in the Frioul, arranged a Plan of Operations, of which the following is a Sketch.

His own Corps was to advance through the Treviſane towards Baſſano, and, after forcing the Paſſages of the Brenta, to proceed towards the Adige, whilſt General Davidovitch ſhould deſcend the Valley by which that River runs down from the Mountains of the Tyrol, forcing the Poſitions of Trente, Rovoredo, &c.

On the 3d of this Month, upon the Approach of Part of General Alvinzy's Advanced Guard, the Enemy abandoned Caſtel Franco; and on the 4th the Auſtrian Corps advanced in Two Columns to the Brenta; the one to Baſſano (of which they took Poſſeſſion) and the other of nearly equal Force (under Lieutenant-General Proverra) to Fonteniva.

General Alvinzy halted on the 5th Inſtant, and ſpent that Day in reconnoitring the Poſition of the Enemy. He found the French Army encamped in in Three Lines in Front of Vicenza.

On the 6th, as General Alvinzy was on the Point of puſhing forward his Advanced Guard, Buonaparte, who had marched in the Night, commenced a moſt ſevere Attack upon his whole Line. The Action began with General Proverra's Corps about Seven in the Morning, and very ſhortly afterwards the Enemy alſo advanced againſt Baſſano.

General Alvinzy reports, that the Enemy's Attacks, though made with the greateſt Impetuoſity, were conſtantly and completely repelled; and that Night put an End to the Affair, without either Party having gained or loſt any Ground: But an indiſputable Proof of the Auſtrians having had the Advantage in this Action is, that when General Alvinzy next Morning was preparing to renew it, he found that the Enemy had completely retreated. He reports, that they directed their March towards Liſiera.

General Proverra's Bridge over the Brenta having been deſtroyed in the Courſe of the Morning of the 6th, his Column could not croſs the River till towards Noon on the 7th, and General Alvinzy's whole Corps arrived late in the Evening of that Day at the Camp of Caldo-Ferro.

General Davidovitch had in the mean Time driven back the Corps oppoſed to him, had made a Thouſand Priſoners, and taken Poſſeſſion of Trente, as was mentioned in his former Report.

On the ſame Day that the above mentioned ſevere Action was fought on the Brenta, General Davidovitch attacked the Enemy in the ſtrong Paſs of Caliano, a little to the Northward of Rovoredo. The French had entrenched their Poſition, and occupied, in conſiderable Force, the Caſtles of Beſſono and La Pietra, which, as I underſtand, command the Paſs.

The Strength of the Poſition was ſuch, that, notwithſtanding his repeated Efforts, General Davidovitch could not force it on the 6th; but on the following Day he renewed his Attack.

The Corps on the Right of the Adige eſtabliſhed Batteries on the Heights of Nomi; which fired with conſiderable Effect; the Troops on the Left of the River attacked the Caſtles and Intrenchments with perſevering Bravery, and the Enemy was at length compleatly defeated, with the Loſs of Five Cannon, Eight Ammunition Waggons, and a Thouſand Priſoners. General Davidovitch ſuppoſes the Enemy's Loſs, in Killed and Wounded, to have been very conſiderable, and ſtates his own to have amounted to Four Hundred Men, killed, wounded and miſſing.

I have the Honor to be, &c.
